Galvanising & Powder Coating

Our outdoor kitchens undergo full immersion galvanising followed by a double powder coating. Full immersion galvanising means each frame is completely submerged in a hot bath of molten zinc, creating a protective layer on both the inside and outside of each tube. We then apply a double layer of durable powder coating, providing additional protection against the elements while enhancing the appearance.

This combination of galvanising and powder coating makes our outdoor kitchens virtually indestructible and weather resistant. Your outdoor kitchen will look as good as new for years, with no worries about rust or corrosion.
